

To Whom it May Concern,

Isite5.com provided me with exactly what I wanted in a website for my company. Mr. Tasso (Toto) listened very closely as I communicated my ideas and preferences for the look and feel of the site. He offered technical guidance and shared his vision based on the needs I expressed to him.

During the process Toto was available by phone and email, and patiently worked with me to produce and tweak several versions of my site, until it was satisfactory to both of us. The collaboration produced a website that imparts a lot of information about my products in a very easy to navigate format with straightforward simplicity. My website serves prospective customers from all over the country who otherwise would have no knowledge of my company.

I highly recommend isite5.com for web production, and would not hesitate to engage isite5.com for any of the other business products and services they offer.

Sincerely,
